(AWMF, Association of Scientific Medical Societies)

Germany

The AWMF comprises more than 180 specialist societies from all areas of scientific medicine, representing over 300,000 experts with specialized research and work focuses. It represents the interests of medical science and communicates them to policymakers and the public, advocating for evidence-based medicine. It addresses interdisciplinary issues in scientific medicine, promotes collaboration among its members in pursuing shared tasks and goals, and facilitates the transfer of scientific findings into clinical practice. The Institute for Medical Knowledge Management (IMWi) coordinates the publication of recommendations for action in the healthcare sector, i.e., guidelines. To shape healthcare in the interest of patients, the system of medical guidelines is continuously being further developed digitally.
